

'45½ and Vernon Guynn, '45½. Thanks to Ed Harding, '44, Dad's Day again this year was greatly enjoyed not only by all the fathers that attended but also by the fellows.

Many of the men have taken that well-known step and hung their pins which was followed with the passing out of "seegars." Now everyone is trying to forget the latter episode. . . . If you happened to smoke one of those "ropes" you can understand why. At the present time Tri-Delt seems to be the fellows favorite sorority.

The senior class this year has started what they hope will be a tradition around the House for years to come. They all purchased for themselves a copper mug. (Now they have their fingers crossed that Uncle Sam won't be asking for all necessary copper.) Well, this cup is to be adorned with the fraternity crest and engraved by all the fellows in the class. Good idea, don't you think? Or don't you?

This year our intramural program is going "great guns" so far. Although the baseball program didn't turn out so well, the water-polo team has hopes of winning top honors. Only time will tell. We lost several of our good men who were
