

working out in the kitchen without bumping in to something.

Cold, calculating Charlie Graham, the red-headed terror from Springfield, has been waging a heartless war that has cost the lives of seventeen—mice. Spurred on by the challenging statement of Trent Knepper that “There are absolutely no mice in room seven,” Charlie commenced to set traps at every conceivable opening. The plan is working. Hats off to a courageous warrior.

Next semester should be the scene of a lot of campus activity. Phi Kappa is bound to be there among the campus leaders.

ROGER HANSEN