

Phi Kappa

Illinois

♣ THEY SAY "you never miss the water 'till the well runs dry," but personally I think they're all wet, if you'll excuse the pun. Each year that a guy returns to the House he realizes more and more how much he'll miss it when he graduates. The dances, the activities, the sports, the comradeship have somehow become a part of a guy, almost a way of life that he hates to give up. Thus, your reporter, along with eleven other seniors here at Phi Kappa, starts his senior year at the University of Illinois.