

but the amps and speakers were sounding good. The sky looked doubtful, so I called the local radio station for the latest forecast. No rain was the response.

I went downstairs to give everyone the good news and saw the Brothers and band members scamp-ering around with plastic bags covering up the P.A. equipment. It has started raining. It rained on and off for about an hour, then the skies cleared. The set up continued, a little more hurried than before.

At ten PM the lights came up, and Thunderbyrd began their first set, playing to a crowd of about five hundred people. As time rolled by, more and more people began arriv-ing, and the Crows, with the help of Thunderbyrd, had attracted a crowd.

Strong Vocals

Thunderbyrd relyed heavily on songs with strong vocals and back-ground instrumentation. The crowd was treated to Beach Boys, Beatles, pop rock, and the occasional Disco song.

This was the first all-campus party we had given since the raising of the drinking age to 21 in Illinois. Consequently, it was the first time we had to restrict the consumption of alcoholic beverages. It was decid-ed that kegs would be kept in the House for Brothers, Little Sisters, and guests who were of age. Of course, entrances to the House had to be guarded. We were all new at this, but we had very few problems because of our team efforts.

All in all, it was a good ex-perience. The Phi Kappa Crows, Thunderbyrd, and the crowd all en-joyed themselves. I'm sure we'll try to pull off another all-campus party in the near future. p
