

Jim was not the only hard working chairman, however. Dan Layzell, philanthropy chairman, also kept himself and all of Phi Kappa busy. One would think the mudwrestling philanthropy project would have been enough, but the Crows remained intent on the philanthropic scene throughout the spring. Joined by the ladies of Alpha Omicron Pi, Crows made up Easter baskets and other prizes and delivered them to the children in a local hospital at Easter time. I'm not too sure who had more fun, the kids or us.

Phi Kappa, as always, took an active interest in other Greek philanthropies as well. Crows participated in everything from a tug-of-war to raise money to fight muscular dystrophy to a tan legs contest sponsored for the Heart Fund. Phi Kappa tries always to participate in other philanthropic projects; they're fun as well as beneficial.

Athletics this past spring continued along their successful path. The softball team, as of this writing, has had three games. One game was called because of rain; however, Crows won both the other games by the slaughter rule. Possibly another softball championship trophy: let's hope so.

Our rugby team didn't fare quite as well. A 1-2 record saw the Crows finishing out of the playoffs. But it's a young team, and members looking forward to the fall tournament.

Quite a number of Phi Kappa Crows are spending their first summer in the "real" post-graduation world. Although four years can seem like a long time, we're sure being Crows made them enjoyable years. Good Luck to all Alpha Chi Rho 1981 graduates.

Phi Kappa would like to congratulate its own undergraduate man of the year, Jim Sperelakis. Jim is a great guy and a true Alpha Chi Rho man. We would also like to congratulate our pledge of the year, Jim Jaskowiak. Jim, better known as J. J., was 84.5 Pledge Class President and did a fine job. We are hoping he can add to Phi Kappa like he added to the 84.5's.

Again, we hope everyone's summer is going well and that their fall is even better. Right now, Phi Kappa is making plans to visit Pennsylvania for the National Convention; see you there! ♡
